Conditions in relation to an Interment Right

The following conditions apply to the Interment Right Holder:

- The Interment Right holder has the sole right to decide and advise the Council about who may be buried, have ashes placed or be memorialized in the site.
- An Interment Right is a contract between a cemetery operator (Council) and a right holder permitting the right holder to undertake burials in a particular grave in a cemetery.
- An Interment Right is an 'interest' in land but the right holder does not become the owner of the land.
- Interment Rights apply to burial in the earth and in vaults. They also apply to burials of cremated remains in the earth or in a columbarium niche wall.
- An Interment Right allows the right holder to bury human remains in a particular grave (next available for Corowa Lawn Cemetery) in a cemetery and for those remains to be left undisturbed (in perpetuity).
- The Interment Right and General Conditions and in accordance with Council's policies and procedures and current fees and charges as agreed to by Council and Cemeteries and Crematoria Act 2013.
- An Interment Right may be varied, transferred, cancelled upon application to Council accordance with current policies and procedures.
- The right granted to the Interment Right Holder will be dealt with as part of the personal estate upon death.
- If the Interment Right holder and/or family are responsible for the maintaining of the headstones or memorials in a safe and proper condition. This is not the responsibility of the cemetery.
- A reservation (Perpetual Interment Right) has a 50-year time limit. After the 50 years is up the reservation will expire.
